Track your way
in comfort and style.

Professional reviewers and ergonomists tend to agree that finger-operated trackballs are preferred to thumb-based trackballs when it comes to precision and hand comfort. At the same time, professional users want to be able to connect across multiple setups. The SlimBlade™ Pro EQ Trackball allows you to work in comfort across multiple devices at the same time. Wired and wireless connection options support PC and Mac to maximize connection flexibility and allow you to easily transition from one setup to the next. The finger-operated trackball delivers precision tracking with less hand and wrist movement, and the unique ball-twist scrolling supports quicker navigation. All in a comfortable and sleek design that saves valuable desktop space and complements a modern workstation.
